

Interview with Kickboxing World Champion Andrew Tate

Three-time kickboxing world champion Andrew Tate, 31, has outspoken views on success, what it takes to make it in the world, and the current culture of victimhood and excuses.

This interview turned out beyond my expectations. Anyone, and I mean that literally, can learn from Andrew's attitude of persistence and grit and making no excuses for yourself or your failures, no matter what area of life they may be in.

Beginning as a chess player, Andrew entered the kickboxing ring at age 16, determined to win.

(Note a few audio problems here and there but Andrew comes through loud and clear.)